Last night in a heavy fog the Merchants & Miners liner Fairfax, bear-a holiday crowd of 71 to Norfolk and Baltimore, crashed without warning into the Fail River oil tanker Pinthis in Massachusetts bay, off Scituate, Massachusetts.

In a minute blazing oil erupted.

Pinthix, fatally stricken, sank to the bottom in 20 minutes, carrying with har all her crew of 19, leaving the Fairfax aflams from stem to stern in a flaming sea.

The sea still blazed tonight when 14 members of the Fairfax crew, mostly negro stewards and 11 men and women passengers had jumped panie stricken to death by fire because they feared that very fate abourd the liner.

A score of persons aboard the Fairfax were burned, two of them fatally and four probably fatally but the stricken vessel and the remainder of its 140 passengers and crew both were saved by quick thinking and Continued on Page 16, Column 4.

Department of justice officials, having jurisdiction over United States marshals, gave the northern district man a clean bill of health after an investigation. Since then his reappointment has been expected momentarily, but somehow action was not taken by the White House until today. Reports have been heard in Washington that administration officials charged with responsibility for southern patronage affairs did not intend to make an appointment in the marshalship vacancy until Georgia republicans eleaned up their present squabble, which came to a head with the state convention held in Atlanta on April 19. The convention resulted in the election of two state chairmen and two state central committees, one headed by Mr. Rose and the other by K. W. Arnold, of Athens. If it is nasty—and it is nasty—they made it nasty and brought reproach on our city.

There is only one treatment for a wet, decided Mrs. Joseph Latzo in a New York court yesterday and that is a stout umbrella laid on heavily. Her husband had just been discharged by Magistrate Rudich for intoxication and was walking down the aisle, when Mrs. Latzo rose from her seaf and, lifting her umbrella, shouted: "So you got off easy," and down came the umbrella, bam. zowie, swish, glug, ug, glug, blump. Joe legged it for the street, his wife in full pursuit. "Save me," he screamed to policemen who were too astonished to take action. When last seen he was heading full steam ahead across the Williamsburg bridge.

CHESS BECOMES POPULAR GAME.

A novel chess game was played recently in Budapest. Bottles of wine were used as the pieces, the cork being drawn and the contents of the "piece" consumed as it fell before the onslaught of its opponent. The winnah, ladeez and gentlemen, was alcohol. Even though spectators were allowed to enjoy the spoils together with the two players, the game had to be called off before either of the two bishops—represented by bottles of famous Hungarian tokay wine—had been captured.

CHICAGO, June 11.—(P)—Nearly 250 alleged hoodlums had been rounded up by midnight as special "strongarm" police squads slashed into underworld haunts bent on ridding Chicago "for all time" of criminals. Stirred to drastic action by public clamor for solution of the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Tribune reporter, and other gangland-slaughters, the squads, armed with shotguns, revolvers and tear-bombs, crashed the thug hangouts with a vengeance. Patrol wagons, loaded, began arriving at police headquarters in a steady stream shortly after 10 p. m. to night and at midnight there was no sign of a let-up.

The prisoners poured in so fast that the attaches of the bureau of identification were swamped and extra details were called on to assist in the work of booking.

As soon as word of the raids was sirculated, a veritable swarm of attorneys, bondsmen and others interested in seeking liberation of the suspects also descended on headquarters, but their efforts came to maught; bail being refused in each instance. Address by Dr. Davis.

Wednesday night Dr. Sherman D. Davis, of Indianapolis, internationally known for his research work in diet and its relation to tooth development and preservation, delivered the principal address, explaining the possibility of preventing tooth decay and even to arrest such decay by following a proper diet.

In his remarks Dr. Davis declared that in his opinion, based on years of research, it is more desirable to observe proper diet than it is to follow the advice of frequent and regular use of the tooth brush. Calcium and phosphorus, he said, are the principal ingredients necessary in a diet to insure against decay of teeth. He recommended a liberal quantity of milk and cheese in the daily diet of children and adults in order that the proper amount of calcium is taken into the system. For phosphorus, he said, a diet including cereal, meat and vegetables is required. With such a combination assuring at least 35 grains of phosphorus and 25 of calcium, the expert declared that little is to be feared from the principal factor of tooth decay. AS MONEY CAN BUY

Sunday Fisherman

To Test State Law

Snared by an old law making Sunday fishing a misdemeanor, a quartet of devotees of that sport this afternoon will take the first step in testing its validity when they, appear before Justice of the Peace George Tumlin charged with its violation following their arrest last Sunday by E. Baughan, DeKalb county fish and same warden,

The men are A. H. Vaughan, 253 Haden street; L. F. Morris, 1022 West View drive; C. A. Smith, 639 Somerset terrace, and M. A. Riley, 1023 West View drive. They were another fishing on South river, near Ranola, by Warden Baughan last Sunday.

Following their arrest it developed that the quartet were violating no game and fish law, but that an old anti-Sunday fishing law still remains on the books. It is on this statute that the four will be tried today.

As he represents Emory University and the southeast he will speak against representatives from Holy Cross College, of Massachusetts; Fordham University, of New York; DePauw University, of Indiana; St. Xavier College, of Ohio; Augustana College, of South Dakota, and the Oregon State College. Each contestant will deliver an original speech, devoted to discussion of the American constitution. Elliott's subject is "The Constitution of the United States," with its major proposition dealing with the liberties insured to individual citizens under the constitution, and the duties thereby imposed.

While a student at Emory University working his way through, Elliott made a record in oratory, yet has never received a lesson in that art. He won oratorical medals in his sophomore, junior and senior years, as well as the Georgia-Florida championship in oratory in 1920. He engaged in 16 varsity debates, winning 15, two of which were against Princeton debaters. He is a member of Tau Kappa Alpha and Lambda Chi Alpha fraternities. Silver service cups were presented him hast year and this by his literary society and fraternity. Young Elliott's home is at Norcross, and his parents are Dr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Elliott, of that city. Returning from California, he plans to enter one of Emory's professional schools.

Atlanta Will Make Bid as Soon as Appropriation Is Voted.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The lower house today gave its final approval to the bill, already passed by the senate, authorizing an expenditure of $2,000,000 for construction in one of the southern states of a branch of the National Home for Disabled Soldiers. Atlanta is expected to present a strong hid for the new institution when the time comes for selection of a site.

Since the present measure carries no appropriation but merely an authorization, consideration is not expected to be given to the matter of a site until actual funds are available. Passage of the authorization measure however, is expected to be followed shortly by an appropriation bill. The selection of a site will be left to the board of managers of the National Home for Disabled Soldiers at Dayton, Ohio.

Representative Robert Ramspeck,

Representative Robert Ramspeck, of the fifth Georgia district, had a bill on the subject before the house, while Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, also offered one in the senate. Senator Duncan U. Plans for entertainment of a large number of Cuban school-teachers who shortly will visit Atlanta, announcement of agreement of the Westinghouse Electric Company to "salute" the city of Atlanta in its nation-wide radio hookup on the night of June 17, and a descriptive talk by Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, on his recent trip to Great Britain, featured the final summer meeting of the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club Wednesday at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Among the visitors attending the meeting Wednesday was Schor Angel Perez, consul for Cuba, who recently arrived in Atlanta to take up his duties here.

Ben S. Barker, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced that his organization is planning to take care of the visiting Cuban school-teachers. Mr. Howell recounted his presence at a dinner with the Prince of Wales and Winston Churchill, as well as his meeting with Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald.

WICKERSHAM'S ROCKET.

The speech made last week to the National Conference of Social Work at Boston by Chairman Wickersham, of the Hoover law enforcement commission confirms the view of the commission's findings that was expressed by The Constitution quite a year ago. Mr. Wickersham at last unbuttoned his bosom and let out the fox that he has been carrying there since the commission commenced to probe into the prohibition problem.

The sum of the Wickersham deliverance is that the present policy of enforcing the prohibition laws by drastic penalties is a failure; that voluntary observance of the laws.

a new policy must be accepted.

> It is easy to sympathize with the farmers of the southwest by forgetting altogether to sympathize with the farmers of the southeast. The cheap Mexican labor which floods the southwestern farms every year sets up an unfair competition with the farmers east of the Mississippi valley, and that is spelling great loss to them, which grows greater as the influx of Mexican peons increases annually in the states of the southwest.

It ought to be possible to so compromise this seasonal farm labor problem as to adjust the interests of the farmers east and west in the southern farm belt and prevent the ruin of the industry of either by unfair competition on the one hand and destructive labor restriction on the other hand.

FORFEITED CIVIL RIGHTS.

In answer to inquiries made of he Constitution by several writers n the city as to the effect of convictions obtained in the "graft rials" now proceeding in the criminal courts of the county upon the ight of those convicted to vote or hold office, it is only necessary to quote the following provision of the state constitution, contained in Article II, Section 2, Paragraph 1,

Of Timbuctoo. There seems to be some mysterious things going on in Timbuctoo Soldiers of the Foreign Legion and co lonial officials from that legendary inaccessible place, now spending a few weeks' leave in Paris, have whispered enough to set all the mondained chroniclers of the capital writing feverishly about their revelations. The excitement here, and in Timbuctoo even more has to do with the appearance of a daneing damsel of such extraordinary beauty that it has already taxed all the diplomatic energy of the French authorities in the heart of the Sahara to keep some tribes of veiled Touaregs and Moors from flying at each other's throats over the girl. The young lady answers to the musical name of Aminata, it appears. It's impossible to describe what she looks like, for alone the testimony of those who have seen her, would fill a book. This much stands out beyond cavil she strikes the warriors of the desert dumb with her beauty, which, it must be obvious, is saying a good deal, for those boys are not so easily intimidated as a rule. Of her origin little is known. Some say she's the daughter of a missionary up Uganda way. One day she appeared in the tumultuous bazar of Timbuctoo and almost started a riot. French sentinels froze into gaping statues and, incredible as it may seem, Arab merchants left their stalls to follow Aminata's footsteps. Trading was suspended for the day that time and an inaccessible place, now spending a nata's footsteps. Trading was suspended for the day that time and an almost religious silence replaced the usually infernal racket of the market square. The last information from square. The last information from the Sahara has it that Animata dances by candle light in a gorgeous silken tent. Sheiks and legionnaires come to watch her. She has repulsed all advances even from those wealthy native chiefs who bring her costly jew-els and promise her the chief place in their harems.

Punch and

Judy The well-known Punch and Judy show, the famous Guignol just off the Champs Elysees, has been modernized. The marionettes have been mechanized. It's by way of a hidden motor now that Polichinelle gives the policeman his drubbing. The children are used to it already. But the old gentlemen, who used to sneak up casually and take in the show from behind one of the old chestnut trees, walk away sighing and shaking their walk away sighing and shaking their heads. And to be sure they are right. Mechanism can never substi-tute itself for the fantasy of the metteur en scene. The old director, Monsieur Nodier, one of Anatole France's friends, is still on the job, Monsieur Nodier, one of Anatole France's friends, is still on the job. however. He takes it easy now. The motor does the work. All he does is collect the pennies. Anatole France used to have long conversations with M. Nodier, when the maitre lived at the villa Said, a little up the way. "It must be difficult to strike the right note for Polichinelle's voice," France said one day. "Not so difficult as you may think, maitre," replied Nodier: "one must just have the habit and some practice." "Isn't that the same thing then?"

"Isn't that the same thing then?"
Nodier explains and shows France a little whistle which he puts into his mouth to help in imitating the voice. France has a try, too. But it doesn't go very well. "An awful thing," says France, "you could easily swallow it." "Oh, as to that, that's nothing Maitre, the one voil that's nothing Maitre, the one voil. easily swallow it." Looks Like Georgia May Lose One of Her Congress Representatives.

Preliminary reports, reasonably sippi one each, with the likeliho that Virginia will also lose one. Every state have a distinctly disappointing aspect. It looks from them that aspect. It looks from them that the total population of the state may fall some little below 3,000.000, not with standing that the census bureau itself made an estimate that the state, on July 1, 1928, contained 3,203,000 inhabitants.

That estimate, of course, was made upon the usual percentage hasis of normal increases from year to year during an intervening decade, but the shifts of population since the census of 1920 have not been normal in many sections of the country, and especially have been manifestly abnormal in the south.

Losses by Negro Migrations.

The Estimates Are Ominous.

Under the census of 1930 and 1900 we had 11 representatives, but under the census of 1910 and since we have and 12 in the congress to be elected in November. because in the meantime there will be no reapportionment by congress.

But the next session of the present congress meeting in December, 1930, on the first day, or within one week the reafter," will receive from the president a statement showing the usual percentage hasis of normal increases from year to year during an intervening decade, but the shifts of population since the census of 1920 have not been normal in many sections of the country, and especially have been manifestly abnormal in the south.

White Recruits Were Many Fewer.

The white persons who have come into the south, with exceptions in Florida and Texas, have generally become city residents. They came to engage in non-rural pursuits. While they have helped to swell the censuses of cities and industrial towns, they have not nearly made up the losses caused by the negro migrations from the country counties of the states.

Scores Key's Record.

In his address at Tenth Street school, Moore said that he did not mention Key in his campaign speechess until after Key had injected his name into the campaign. Moore declared that he wants to run on his record, and wants Key to do the same. "I want Key to come out and show me one constructive thing he did during his administration. He did not do constructive things. He did destructive things. He did destructive things. He did destructive things. His entire four years was a quarrel with the power company." Moore said.

In his speech Councilman Moore pledged himself to a business administration, advocating the adoption of instraction, advocating the adoption of instraction. In the city of the few the first adoption of instraction and the city of the few t do constructive things. He did de-structive things. His entire four years was a quarrel with the power com-pany," Moore said.

Losses by Negro Migrations.

Since 1920 there has been a steady migration of negroes from the south to the industrial and metropolitan areas north of the Mason and Dixon line. It is estimated by railway and industrial agents that largely more than a million negroes have thus left the southern states.

The causes assigned for their leaving are variously stated.

The main research. enen as nearly as practicable. The official census returns from 150 counties show that the districts as they now stand are ridiculously unequal in their populations.

If we are reduced to 11 members there will see a standard to 11 members.

The causes assigned for their leaving are variously stated.

The main reason seems to be the better wages promised to them for doing the heavy work in northern and middle western industries.

Another reason is that the southern negro farmers and farm hands have found that their labors in the fields do not, either in crops or wages, insure them a reasonable living.

Yet another reason is that the negroes imagine they will have more equal rights and privileges in the north. Whether they have found that the roes imagine they will have more than the needed quotate to be true is for them to say after they shall have had full experience.

It Will Humiliate Us Some.

Johnson Urges Election.

Speaking at English Avenue school,
City Warden Johnson urged his own election as mayor on a program of protecting home labor and of putting common sense into administration of the city's affairs. Johnson asked, "Why don't the representatives in council who are running for mayor call on the Junior Chamber and the Chamber of Commerce to stop this reducing of wages?" Johnson declared that "when you hurt the work-

In his speech Councilman Moore pledged himself to a business administration, advocating the adoption of a budget system throughout the city government.

"Under the present system," he said, "allocations are made by the council to the different departments. They then have no further control over the money. If a department runs out it comes back for more.

"Under a budget plan these things would not occur. The budget would be based on a monthly basis and it would be impossible to run out before the year was over."

Brittain Sees Personality Chief Asset of Graduates

BILOXI, Miss., June 11.—In addressing the annual convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, Dr. Martin L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, advised young men to develop personality if they are to be successe in life.

"If you want to be a success in the said, "drop your Phi Beta Kappa key down a well, and work hard to become editor of the school paper, captain of the foothall team, president of your class, leader of colding dearting and cultivate your personality."

In describing the modern code of education Dr. Brittain did not give scholarship it e "go-by" entirely; in fact, he expressed the opinion that if a young man were to be conceded any great future he should rank in the upper half of the class. With that as a start, combined with personality, success then looms merely for the effort of taking it.

"It has required years of association with young men and watching their careers after graduation for me to learn to value something which we call personality." said Dr. Brittain. "It is not taught in classrooms, and the youth finishes his course of study without emphasis upon this important factor in his life.

Fight for New Cotton Co-op Offices Lost by Atlanta

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—
(Special.)—Atlanta today lost its fight to be designated as headquarters for the giant cotton co-operative association set up a few months ago, under auspices of the federal farm board. Allen Northington, president of the organization, which was given the official name of American Cotton Co-operative Association, announced after a meeting of the board of directors late today that New Orleans has been selected as the permanent headquarters city. Temporary headquarters have been at Dallas.

At the same time, however, as it was made known that Atlanta will be designated as one of the regional headquarters, with jurisdiction over activities of the organization over activities of the organization in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and probably eastern Alabams. Other regional offices will be established at Memphis, Houston, and Dallas.

area, funds of the new Atlanta federal building were reduced $225,000 by the house appropriations committee in reporting the second deficiency bill today.

The bill thus carries an appropriation of $2,650,000 for the Atlanta project, instead of the $2,875,000 which department officials had recommended earlier. Even so the city's allotment of funds is still greater by $550,000 than the original authorization provided last year.

The reduction in the Atlanta estimates was made after Director Roop, of the budget, bureau, wrote a letter to Chairman Will R. Wood, of the house appropriations committee, explaining that the recent recommendation had been based on the assumption that the fourth corps area would require 19,777 square feet of space in the new building. The space will not be needed, he said, it having since been decided that headquarters for the army corps activities will be maintained at Fort McPherson.

Tribute Is Paid Moore by Pastor In Radio Address

Tribute to the business ability and character of Councilman Wiley L. Moore, candidate for mayor, was voiced Wednesday night by his pastor, Dr. W. H. Faust, pastor of the Gordon Street Baptist church, in an ddress over radio.

Gordon Street Baptist church, in an address over radio.

Mr. Faust said Moore is a "man whose integrity and honesty of purpose, as well as his ability and desire to aid every worthy cause, have made him a mighty host of personal friends, throughout the city and the entire state." Dr. Faust said Atlanta has grown from a small town into one of the nation's greatest and most progressive cities in little over a generation. "For its chief executive, we need a man who is cosmopolitan and conditions," he declared.

"From the days of Abraham Lincoln down to this goodly hour, it has been the pride of the United States that any of her citizens might climb from a position in the ranks to the very heights of success and achievement. And today in every circle of life there are to be found men who have climbed the ladder of life to a place of eminent success and in so doing have illustrated the fundamental ideas and ideals of a mighty democracy. This candidate was and is such a man. Like many other great and successful men, he was born in a Georgia town. His acquaintance with poverty and hard struggle after a steady climb in the business work, has peculiarly fitted him to be perfectly at home with capital and labor and has made him capable of intelligently and sympathetically dealing with such problems so that he could give to their solution wisdom born from experience, which after all, is the finest type in the world.

"In a campaign for the chief exec-

"In a campaign for the chief executive of a great city, principles and policies and platforms are more vital than criticism," Dr. Faust said. "Mud than criticism," Dr. Faust said. "Mud slinging never gets a great city far. No man builds up his walls by tearing down those of his fellows. The dignity of such a city as Atlanta is lowered and discredited by any man who aspires to official position, using up time in trying to make his opponent out as unfit for the suffrage of the masses."

Passengers Taken Off.

The Gloucester, another M. & M. liner, which took off the passengers early this morning, came into port a few hours before the Fairfax, like a wounded animal, crept slowly back with the sea licking the wound in her starboard bow and reaching for the marks of fire along her side.

They carried the burned men, women and children from the Gloucester to waiting ambulances and then the other passengers followed bringing with them tales of the tragedy.

While 12 members of the United States navy aboard the Fairfax—seven marines, three chiefs and two sailors—were desperately fighting the fire on the starboard side, trying to prevent panic-stricken passengers from leaping over the rails and rigging an emergency radio aerial, Farrell asserted, negro members of the crew sought the opposite side of the ship and many climbed into lifeboats. Farrell also asserted that some of the ship's officers seemed more excited than the passengers and that some of the crew apparently did not know where the life preservers were kept—that the navy men had to distribute them to passengers.

Investigation of the disaster was started simultaneously by United States and local inspectors as well as by company officials.

Supervising Inspector Oscar G. Haines, of the United States ateam charles M. Lyons, a local inspector, went aboard the Fairfax as soon as she docked and questioned Captain Brooks and her crew.

WHY does ice cream play such a part in sentimental situations? One thinks of a shady nook, a porch party in the moon-light, a canoe skimming along under the willows-it's always the girl, the occasion, and ice cream!

At the bride's party, it's ice cream-at the child's party it's ice cream-wherever sentiment or festivity predominates, it's always ice cream.

Because in offering ice cream to friend or guest there is the finest and daintiest expression of regard-not subtle, but genuinely sentimental-the modern translation of viands and ambrosia, meaning the best refreshment one is able to offer! In the making of this idealistic character of ice cream is kept in mind. It prompts a conscientious effort to produce the quality and smoothness this greatest of all refreshments should have-rare and delicate flavors -and above all purity even surpassing the requirements of health authorities and diet specialists.

Ice cream figures large in the romance of boyhood and young girlhood so the actual healthvalue of The Velvet Kind is a consideration of first importance.

And who believes that we ever grow out of our boyhood and girlhood tastes, or that the canoe skimming under the willows ever loses its romance, or that a shady nook or a porch in the moonlight ever loses its attraction?

Associated Press Market Editor.

CHICAGO, June 11 .- (AP) -- Something of a break in drought conditions of the Canadian prairies, together with New York Stock Market disturbance, accompanied sharp down-turbance, accompanied sharp down-turns in wheat prices today. From the outset, prospects of relief from the moisture scarcity that has been impeding wheat crop progress in Can-ada counted as a bearish factor, and this influence was augmented more influence was augmented this influence was augmented more and more by the action of securities, Wall Street rallies coming chiefly after wheat dealings were at an end. The United States government crop report was practically ignored, notwithstanding that the condition of spring wheat was the lowest with only six exceptions since 1867.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsteady at almost the day's bottom level, 13-8 to 2c lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 5-8 to 11-2c down, oats 1-4 to 1-2c off, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 2c. more by the action of securities, size of 2c.

Speculative sellers of wheat were a little more active today than of late, but dearth of buyers rather than late, but dearth of buyers rather than pressure to sell was the main apparent reason for price drops. Rains in parts of domestic spring wheat territory supplemented the market effect of Canadian downpours, and field experts reported that much domestic spring wheat territory showed good stand and color, with the plants well stooled and sufficient moisture for the present. Besides unsettlement of stock market values, a disconcerting circumstance affecting friends of higher prices for wheat was that the companion breadstoff, rye, was suffering from stoploss selling on the part of holders, and had tumbled down today to a new bottom price record for the season, 21 1-2c a bushel lower than corn.

Adding to the weakness of the wheat market here, and of all other grain as well, was news that barley grain as well, was news that barley at Winnipeg was selling at less than Ic a pound, bringing only about half the price prevailing for corn in Chicago. The Winnipeg selling of barley was ascribed to the Canadian growers' pool, and carried the commodity down to a new low level for the crop year to date, about 12 1-4c per bushel under oats prices at Winnipeg. During most of the day, export demand for North American wheat appeared to lack volume, but late estimates were that 800,000 bushels had been taken, including some hard winter wheat from the United States.

Corn and oats were affected large-ly by the action of wheat and by favorable advices about the progress of feed crops.

Provisions averaged lower, influenced by grain weakness.

NEW YORK, June 11.—(P)—The movement of bonds in the listed market today was mixed. Prime investment issues in the domestic and foreign lists improved in price, but the desultory movement of industries and irregular appearance.

The turnover continued close to the pace set yesterday, with the late trading bringing an encouraging tone in the best issues. Imminence of the German loan drew more attention to the foreign list, particularly German issues and those of principal European governments, with prices enhanced. Bond houses reported that the German bonds, to be offered tomorrow at 90 in the United States, sold readily on a when-issued basis, with the premium as high as one point. Bond men expect a large oversubscription of the American issues since market and credit conditions are Bailes (in SL WASHINGTON, June 11.—(P)—A government ginning plant to carry on experiments toward reducing the damage to cotton staple by the present day gins, estimated to amount to $50.00.000 a year, would be established under the second deficiency bill, reported today with an item of $100,000 for that purpose.

Representative Buchanan, democrat. Texas, and S. H. McCrory, chief of the agricultural department's bureau of agricultural department's bureau of agricultural department's bureau of the appropriations sub-committee on the proposal said it was hoped that some invention would result from the proposed experiments which would be accepted by the gin manufacturers. which would be accepted by the gin manufacturers.

Replying to questions, the Texan said no definite site for the laboratory had been selected, but that he believed it should be somewhere in Mississippi in a section that furnishes the different varieties and length of cotton staples affected.

"The object of this appropriation," he went on, "is to study the whole field of the ginning or processing of cotton in the seed and turn it out as lint without injuring and destroying its creative value."

Representative Whittington, democrat, Mississippi, also appeared before the committee and quoted from a letter from an eastern cotton manufacturer who estimated that because of injury to the staple cotton in the ginning process, "The cotton growers are losing from $3 to $5 a bale." Sales Show Increase NEW YORK, June 11.—Dollar sales by food stores of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, issued today for May, 1930, showed a 7.55 per cent increase over those of the same period for 1929 despite lower foodstrift prices to the consumer. NEW YORK, June 11.—The fresh selling wave which overcome prices in Wednesday's session after a single day's raily reflected a radically altered public psychology. The business situation has undergone no noteworthy change during the past week, such changes as occufred having been of a seasonal nature. Nevertheless, much of the recent optimism over the longer range business in the seasonal nature. Nevertheless, much of the restent outlook is wanting: a residently yesterday's sharp raily, rather than improving sentiment was accepted as furnishing an advantageous selling point and while sentiment remains so ill disposed as at present, whether justifiably or not, the sharper railies are likely to be so regarded. The covering movement at the close cannot, in the light of the day's heavy selling and substantial declines, be regarded as more than overnight short covering and indications of an effective resistance point will have to be watched for before fresh commitments for trading operations are made.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW TORK, July 11.—Stocks were under pressure steadily and in the last hour were showing a tendency to break Tuesday's lows. Just when matters were at their worst, an urgent buying movement in Steel carried that stock from its low of 1804 to 185 in about two minutes for of 1804 to 185 in about two minutes of trading. Steel closed at 1634 for a final loss of 34 points. American Can, Radio and some of the leaders showed a quick response to the sudden spurt in Steel. The movement, however, came too late to save the market from showing a pyery large average loss on the day, the example of the sudden showing a pyery large average loss on the day, the example of the sudden showing a prey large average loss on the day, the example of the sudden showing a prey large average loss on the day, the example of the same of the same too fine of the sudden showing a prey large average loss on the day, the example of the same of the example of the same of the same too fine of the same of the same of the example of the same of t proximated 6 points from the afternoon lows.

The failure of the market to continue Tuesday afternoon's raily, after a definite selling climax had been indicated, is absolutely without precedent in recent years. It adds another bearish technical item to the recent break from a dull trading area. These typically bear market technical performances indicate a rather discouraging outlook for the market over the next few months. A great deal is being made of the hopeless outlook for general business. We doubt that the outlook is as hopeless as it has now become the fashion, to picture it. As statistically measured general business activity is not only bolding far above the depression levels of 1921, but so far this year has shown a sideways movement keeping above the low levels reached in the fairfy moderate recession of 1924.

NEW YORK. June 11.—While cotton sold 10 to 14 lighter during the early frading on steady cables and a less favorable weekly weather report, the market turned easy in the aftermon and declined 17 to 29 points from the early high owing largely to selling by arry buyers and seattered liquidation influenced by the failure of the demand to broaden poor textile advices and the weakness in the stock and grain markets. The present tendency appears to be a sagging one owing to lack of demand. NEW YORK.

After advancing to 15.20, July eased off to 14.96 and closed at 15.00. while the new October contract sold off from 14.02 to 13.75 and closed at that figure. The final tone of the market was barely steady at net declines of 10 to 14 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 7 points to a decline of 2 points. Some initial selling on favorable weather reports was readily absorbed by covering, while there may have been some local buying on a belief that a favorable weekly weather report had been discounted in the market's technical position.

There was also some covering in July and at the high points of the morning active months zenerally showed net adv. nees of about 8 to 15 points, with buying a little more active after the publication of the weekly report, which proved a little iess favorable than some had expectical. The demand then tapered off around 14.31 for the old October and 14.12 for new December, however, and the market eased later in the day under liquidation by early buyers with a renewal of local and commission buses selling. 3 Authon Krop Raz A

MIAMI. Fla., June 11.—(P)—The Bank of Bay Biscayne, oldest financial institution of south Florida, and three subsidiaries in metropolitan Miami failed to open their doors today. The subsidiaries are the Miami Beach Bank and Trust Company, the Bank of Coral Gables, and the Biscayne Trust Company.

Notices posted on the doors of the various institutions said the action had been taken by directors "for protection of depositors" and because of "recent substantial withdrawals."

A fifth banking house, the Bank of Homestead, closed its doors after being open an hour, with the statement that it would reopen in a few days. Homestead is 30 miles south of Miami.

The City National bank remained open after its regular closing hour to give depositors opportunity to withdraw their money if they chose. President Hugh Gordon, Jr., said withdrawals had been approximately $350,000, and that funds were available for all depositors seeking them.

Other banks in the city and in the suburbs reported heavy withdrawals during the day, but in all instances reported that depositors had been orderly.

Creed Taylor, deputy governor of the federal reserve bank in this dis-trict, came here today by airplane from Tampa, and went into confer-ence with officials of the Bank of Bay Biscayne, a member of the re-serve system. Arthur W. Saarinen, of the state banking department, took charge of affairs of the closed bank and subsidiaries.

A formal statement from President
Gilman, of the bank said:

It was estimated that between 8,000 and 10,000 persons were affected by the closing of the Miami area

Only about 100 of the prisoners at Milledgeville are at work, Judge Rainey said. The remainder are sick, blind or otherwise disabled. Many of the incapacitated ones were sent back from prison campa, where they were unable to work.

Altogether, he said, there are 120 prison camps in the counties. The counties have the authority to establish their own camps, and also to abolish them, thus throwing a number of men back on the state prison system. No definite plans have been adopted to relieve the situation, he said.

The Continental Construction Company, a Delaware corporation, was formed to construct the high pressure line from southern Oklahoma to Chicago and other centers, including intermediate points.

The pipe line will have an initial daily delivery capacity of upward of 300,000,000 cubic feet of gas and will serve more than 50 cities and communities in the middle west.

Contracts are being let for 1,000 miles of 24-inch high pressure pipe. An additional 1,000 miles of smaller pipe will be used in auxiliary and lateral lines. Construction will start immediately on a number of gas compressor stations totalling 70,000 horsepower, which will be raised later to 100,000 horsepower.

RIALTO

BY ATLANTA CHANGES

Al Latell, the man who plays a dog at the Fox theater this week in the Fanchon and Marco idea, "Let's Pretend," is playing his first engagement in Atlanta in several years. When he saw the skyline from the top of the Fox theater yesterday he said, "Moore and more like the city it is going to be every year."

Mr. Latell said that he had gotten so used to the old Five Points he was in a maze when he reached Atlanta Sunday and hoped to get back here next year to see the new Five Points as it would look. "And this Fox theater," he said, "why, this playhouse would do credit to a city of a million inhabitants."

The feature presentation this week. "Fox Movietone Follies of 1930," not a revue, but a farce comedy with music and girls, features El Brendel, the funny Swede, and Marjorle White, the comical flapper. The present show closes Friday night to give way to an entirely new show on stage and screen. Saturday the feature will be Will Rogers in "So This Is London."

CONGRATULATIONS SENT FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

BILOXI, Miss., June 11.—(Special.)—A resolution was adopted toclat.)—A resolution was adopted to-day by the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, dur-ing a session of its annual conven-tion here, extending hearty congratu-lations to the First National Bank of Atlanta on the occasion of laying the cornerstone of their new build-ing Thursday. The building is a member of the national association through federation of the Atlanta as-sociation.

A feature of today's session was an address by Dr. M. L. Brittain, of Georgia Tech, on "The Young Business Man."

30 WITNESSES HEARD ON 'JURY TAMPERING'

Holding an all-day session in which more than 30 witnesses were heard, the grand jury Wednesday continued its investigation into alleged jury tampering, particularly with reference to the case of City Clerk Walter C. Taylor, who three weeks ago was convicted of bribery and sentenced to serve a year on the chaingang.

Most of the witnesses heard Wednesday were men who had been summoned on the Taylor trial jury but who were excused for some eause or another. One of the witnesses, it was learned, is a citizen living more than 100 miles from Atlanta.

The grand jury will continue its probe today. Six persons already are under indictment for alleged jury tampering, three of them being license inspectors working under Taylor.

Del Rio and Lowe Stars of 'Bad One'

"Charmaine" and "Sergeant Quirt" are together once more in a motion picture. Dolores Del Rio, starring with Edmund Lowe in the George Fitzmaurice production, "The Bad One," opens a week's run at Keith's Georgia Monday.

"The Bad One" furnishes Miss Del Rio with the most powerful role in her career. It is the first time these two stars have been seen together since "What Price Glory." Dolores plays the part of a tempestuous and flirtatious entertainer of the Marseilles waterfront cafes, filled with the emotional range of which she is so capable.

emotional range of which she is so capable.

"The Bad One" is rollicking fun, set in a background that mirrors the Marseilles waterfront, with its primal passions, its strifes and gayetles.

Edmund Lowe is again the character he was in "The Cock-Eyed World," still boasting of his power over the weaker sex (if you'll excuse me.) But when he met the cafe dancer it was all over. He fell and fell hard.

MISS MILDRED PAIRO WEDS ROBERT GARVIN BROWN

Ceremony Is Performed At Peachtree Road Residence John Wood Stoney

A marriage combining beauty and charm and one of interest to hosts of friends was that of Miss Mildred Jones Pairo to Robert Garvin Brown, which was solemnized with impressive dignity last evening at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Prescott Pairo, on Peachtree road. Dr. W. W. Memminger, pastor of All Saints' Episcopal church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. gathering of relatives and friends.

Exquisite simplicity was expressed in the decorations of palms, ferns and white roses. The ceremony took place in the long drawing room, stately palms lending an effective background for the white satin prie-dleu, which was placed directly beneath the lovely portrait of the beautiful Lucy Walthall Carlisle, great-grandmother of the bride. Two seven-branched cathedral candelabra holding white tapers burned on either side, throwing a soft mellow light over the bridal party and adding a touch of delicate loveliness to the impressiveness and solemnity of the scene. Vases and French baskets filled with flowers decorated the reception hall and dining room, pastel shades being reflected in roses, snapdragons, gladioli and larkspur used to adorn the mantel and consoles.

Southern smilax was entwined around the stairway railing and banisters. Preceding the ceremony and during the taking of the vows a lovely program of nuptial music was played on the Italian harp, this instru-ment being placed near the altar, adding great beauty to the scene.

The group of bridesmaids were gowned in period costumes of white ert Lee Brown, of Louisville, Ky. They were followed by the bridesmaids, Mrs. Roland Galliher, of Bristol, Va., and Miss Margaret Whittle, who entered singly. The wedding was attended by a few friends and members of the bride's family. After a reception the couple left for a wedding trip on their new yacht, which lay in readiness off one of the piers of the Maryland Yacht Club, It was said that upon their return they planned to live either at Eccleston or in New York. The application for a marriage license gave Mr. Atwill's age at 45 and Mrs. MacArthur's as 36 and stated that both had been divorced.

While she was married to Major General Douglas MacArthur she resided in Atlanta at the Georgian Terrace, during his command of the fourth corps area. She was the former Henrietta Louise Cromwell, and was considered one of Washington's most beautiful and attractive young women from the time of her debut there in 1910. Mr. Atwill, who made this stage debut in England in 1905, ranks high in his profession.

BETTING LIGHT ON EVE OF TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK, June 11.- For the moment the old noisy mob that alternated between the Polo grounds and the Yankee stadium sitting in while the Giants or the Yankees deal classic baseball is divided.

Most of the scattering has been over the river, where the Brooklyn Dodgers are showing their heels to the Giants and making motions like a championship ball

The influx of fans from the Manhattan side of the river has caused no end of alarm in Flatbush. The burghers are squawking to Uncle Robby that he must sell his reserved seats to Brooklynites first on holidays. The town is mildly crazy about the youngsters with whom Uncle Robby is mopping up.

MANY EXPLANATIONS.

Many explanations are given for the sudden uprising of this Brooklyn team. Glenn Wright is most often credited with putting the Robins out in front. Tissue was cut from Wright's leg and used to bind his arm to his shoulder to cure an injury sustained playing handball. This delicate operation has been Babe Herman, once the bad boy of the Southern league, marvelously improved in hitting and defensive play, is another factor. The brilliant pitching of Dazzy Vance and Adolfo Luque helped. So does the skill of Walter Gilbert, the best hit and run man in the majors, Probably the reason is a compound of all these developments plus the genius of Wilbert Robinson in engineering smart trades and cannily handling his temperamental bunch of young moderns. All through the long winter at Dover Hall, in Brunswick, Ga., Uncle Robby was studying his problems. There he worked out the combination that to date is setting the National league pace. If he comes through at the finish, Georgia folks will feel a keen delight in his victory.

BABE'S PICTURE CAMPAIGN.

Not long ago Babe Herman was in a batting slump. He was just taking his three cuts and walking back to the bench. It was getting painful. Finally one day Babe noticed on the wall of the dugout a picture of himself cut from a newspaper and above it another clipping that read "Extra Outfielder" pasted. Babe's ears burned. He said nothing but went out and hit a home run and four singles.

Then he slumped again for a few days. And soon a picture of Babe gazing at the end of his bat appeared pasted on the wall of the dugout and above it a line from a clothing advertisement, "One-third to One-half Off." This time Herman raged. "I'll show that Wisenheimer that's trying to kid me," he exclaimed. And that day he hit three singles his first three times at bat, driving the ball straight through the infield; the next two visits he made to the plate the enemy walked him.

who figured out th never been revealed. But it would be about like Uncle Robby himself to have done it.

JUST AN "EMPTY HOSS."

Down at the Madison Square Garden press room this morning, where the gentlemen of the press were assembled to claim their tickets for the fight, I learned just what happened to Whichone in his noble experiment against Gallant Fox last

A New York turf writer quoted a colored exercise boy to explain it as follows: The crowd at the rail was yelling come on Whichone, come on Whichone, as they passed the stand, but Jockey Workman seemed just to be riding easy.

As they continued to parade with Gallant Fox leading and Whichone following down the backstretch and around the last turn the crowd renewed their pleadings, Come on Workman, come on Workman! Why don't that jockey come on with

A negro stable hand turned and said to a comp ion: "They ain't no use of them begging that jock to come on with that hoss. They ain't no come on in him. That's an empty hoss."

That expression, "an empty hoss," not only explains the performance of Whichone, but it more clearly expresses Tannery in the recent Kentucky Derby than any of the 2,000 words your correspondent devised.

CRACKERS HOME | BASEBALE JIM HAMILTON THIS AFTERNOON Cummary

Eleven Out of 14 Games Is Record of Fighting Atlanta Club.

By Ralph McGill.

Those Atlanta Crackers, known two weeks ago as "John Dobbs' Bums," come home today to find themselves dignified by the fans once more as "Our Crackers." The old cast-off jinx bit the Crack-The old cast-off jinx bit the Crack-ers viciously Wednesday, causing them to lose a ball game and give them only three out of four played with the Chattanooga Lookouts. Cast-off Johnny Jones tripled in the 10th to win one of those extra inning games, 6 to 5. The Crackers had won three of the extra inning affairs in four days and must have got careless yes-terday.

Still, "Our Crackers" have won 11 out of the last 14 games played and fans who were yelling "boo"
a few days ago are now out squawking "Hurrah." Which is the way of the world.
The Crackers will play a doubleheader today with the Little Rock Trayelers, the first game getting away at 2:15 o'clock.

And the Crackers look good enough

LOOK GOOD FOR ONE.

And the Crackers look good enough to win at least one of them if not both and be off to a running start for the home series, which will include six games, a second double-header being scheduled for Saturday.

Red Barron, the disabled outfielder, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday, and Wednesday was around ballybooing the Crackers as one of the finest fighting teams he had ever played on.

Sitting in the doctor's office yesterday morning, Red Barron said, "You may expect the Crackers to win a lot of games and go on up in the race. They are fighting now.

NOT MUCH WRONG.

"There never was much wrong with race. They are fighting now.

NOT MUCH WRONG.

"There never was much wrong with the club," he said. "They were off to a bad start and it was on their minds. They tightened up. Every, thing they did was wrong. They were pressing too hard. In the clubhouse there was never anything said.
It was just like someone was dead.
The boys just dressed and got out.
"Then we won that doubleheader at Nashville. The boys perked up a bit. And we came through on Monday and won again.
"You couldn't hear yourself yell in the clubhouse that night. Everyone was yelling and talking. They were new men and then went on to run that winning streak to six straight.
It takes a thing like that to get a ball club out of it.

KEEP GOING.
Red Barron. "Roy Carlyle is a cinch to hit. He seems to have got started now. It's a ren' ball cuts and always has been."

Red Barron is out for about two weeks. His right eye is swollen practically shut and he has double vision. Peering from beneath the near-closed lids he sees two objects instead of one. Physicians have assured him that the eye will clear up as soon as the swelling is gone.

His right cheek bone is fractured so badly that it is dented in. "The doctor says it always will be," he said ruefully. "All my injuries happen to my right side," he said. "My jaw was broken on that side."

OUT TWO WEEKS.

Barron will be out about two weeks.

OUT TWO WEEKS.

Barron will be out about two weeks.

Meanwhile the Cracker lineup seems to be going along in fine style. The loss Wednesday was a heart-breaker.

The Crackers will come back with a lot of dash against the Travelers.

The Cracker pitchers are well rested and working now in something like regular order, which is one reason for the team's success.

There is no alarm felt over Hugh Starling's failure Wednesday. He was not expected to get going for a few days.

Crackers Lose In 10 Innings, 6-5.

In 10 Innings, 6-5.

CHATTANOOGA, June 11.—A pair of former Crackers rose in their tracks and beat Johnny Dobbs out of a ball game this afternoon when it seemed that Atlanta was to continue carrying the Lookouts over the hurdles. The score was 6 to 5.

And it was the third 10-inning affair for the two in four games.

With one down in the tenth, Charlie Gooch lined a cracking single to left. Johnny Jones, until a few days ago a Cracker, came to bat. Bill Rodgers put on the hit-and-run. Knight let loose one of his fast ones and Charlie went down with the throw, rounding second as the ball reached the plate.

SLAMMED IT OUT.

Johnny slammed it deep between center and right. Sam Langford and Jimmy Johnston never made a move for the ball. They started for the dugont with the crack of the bat.

Johnny gets credit for a triple and also for winning a ball game.

One of the smallest crowds of the year began pouring out of the gates, late for dinner, but happy.

Wallie Dashiell had heroed in the ninth when he slapped one over the stand in left field with one on to tie the score and make it possible for Johnny to come along and win the game.

Johnny to come along and win the signs of injury. Loughran was much slower afoot than when he was king of the light-heavies.

HARGREAVES SOLD.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 11.—(P) Charles Hargreaves, catcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been sold outright to Buffalo of the International league, it was made known tonight. He will report to Buffalo tomorrow at Baltimore.

Johnny to come along and win the game.

Frank Walker, the other ex-Cracker, also did his bit for the new home town. Art Decatur was hurling and the veteran right-hander was putfing all he had on every ball. Appling, who had tripled twice, lifted an easy one to Dashiell. But Polvogt, one of the most powerful swingers seen here this year, lined over second for what looked like a sure ringle maybe more. Frank was playing deep. But the old boy came running in at top

Mobile Club Cut to 11 Men as Fans Turn Backs on Park.

MOBILE, Ala., June 11.-(AP)-Renewing efforts to carry out his intention to move the Mobile Southern association baseball franchise to Knoxville, Tenn., Jimmy Hamilton, president-manager of the Mobile club, has asked permission of league officials to transfer eight games schedaled here the last part of this month to Knoxville. Birmingham is scheduled in Mobile for five games from June 22 to 26 inclusive, and Atlanta is to play here June 27-29, inclusive, but Hamilton has asked permission to move these games to Knoxville where it is his intention to have Mobile appear as the home team against Birmingham and Atlanta. Whether Hamilton's move will be successful is dependent on favorable action by President Martin, of the league, as well as the outcome of rumored injunction proceedings on the part of minority stockholders here who, it is understood, are contemplating an injunction to throw the entire situation into the courts and asking a receiver for protection of their interests.

At the same time announcement was made from city hall yesterday after a conference participated in by the entire commission that a meeting had been called for 11 o'clock Friday at the city hall to discuss the baseball situation. The commission invited Robert M. Weinacker, under whose leadership Mobile won its only Class A pennant in 1922; W. A. Doughas, former president of the club; George Stanard, Alex Hancock and Hunter Watkins to attend the meeting. Douglas, Stanard and Hancock are among the minority stock-holders of the club.

The meeting set for Friday is to consider an offer to Hamilton for his holdings in the Mobile club. Mayor Hartwell, when Hamilton first announced he desired to dispose of his holdings, undertook to form a company to take over the franchise, but when Hamilton placed a price of $50,000 on his holdings, for which he paid $15,000, the movement was dropped. Hamilton owns 51 per cent of the club. Mayor Hartwell stated that the entire situation would be discussed at the meeting Friday and at that time some announcement would be made as to what action would be taken to maintain the franchise in taken to maintain the franchise

FIGHT REFEREE TO BE NAMED AT RINGSIDE

Official To Be Picked From Six Men: Sharkey Still Favorite.

COMPETENT REFEREE.

The New York boxing commission through Chairman Farley assures everyone that the referee will be competent and will give the German a fair deal. But not even the chairman of the commission can forecast how the referee will behave when things begin happening fast. Any fight involving a fighter like Sharkey who has an ungovernable temper, is liable to prove troublesome for any referee. If Sharkey's patriotic fervor gets the best of him and he begins swinging wildly for the German's hip will the referee have enough presence of mind to stop the fight? Besides are there six competent referees in New York? The silence is deafening is answer to those questions but nevertheless they have done great work in discouraging six competent referees in New York? The silence is deafening in answer to those questions but nevertheless they have done great work in discouraging the gambling evil.

I am informed in several quarters that very little cash money has been wagered on the fight, no reform movement headed by our leading evangelists could have struck such a blow at gambling as this uncertainty over the referee has done.

Odds are mentioned glibly in the papers as favoring Sharkey 9 to 5. But nobody has seen anybody make a bet. The odds are 1 to 3 against a knockout by Schmeling. Yet one would think that gambling was against the law here. The only currency risked so far is purely conversational century notes.

The gate will be about $700,000, they say. The day of the million dollar fight passed when Tex Richard and Jack Dempsey faded out. But at that the milk fund will be considerably improved by the event and undoubtedly one of the men will be hailed as champion of the world by tomorrow midnight.

Fortunately your correspondent feels no urge to pick a winner. That is a pastime that is reserved for those who know all about boxing and talk out of the side of the mouth. I stammer when experting on boxing.

ALL FEAR WORST.

For if one of those imposing traffic cops walked up and said "Hey you, pick the winner of the flight and be quick about it" I would step along weakly in the wake of the majority of the great minds and pick Sharkey. Then in the next breath I would begin hoping to goodness I was wrong and nulling for the imported entry

Jack may win sooner, but I believe Schmeling is a strong, tough youth, and he may be able to stall defeat off that long because of these attributes. I think Sharkey will win because he knows too much boxing for his opponent. And his constant bombardment of Max's rugged body will finally wear down even this fine speciment of young manhood.

I believe Sharkey will pave the way for Schmeling's defeat with that left hook which he has perfected in his training—that his left hook will be the blow that will wear down the gallant young German and make him an easy prey for the Sharkey right, which may be the final blow of the fight.

As for the battle itself. I think will be a good one. Every one been asking me if Schmeling can has been asking me if Schmeling can take punishment. Sizing up the German in his training camp. I have come to the conclusion that he will stand up under a lot more punishment than some people think. In short, I look for a repetition of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight in the early rounds, with a different ending—said ending being that Sharkey will be the victor instead of the vanguished.

The somewhat historic crown that Gene Tunney discarded two years ago will find a new parking space tonight at the Yankee stadium upon the dome of either Jack Sharkey or Max Schmeling, the two surviving tenders who have been getting ready for this party for some time.

The debris of words and opinions, guessing and experting, has now been swept away and the decks are cleared for action.

Sharkey will face his fourth chance to reach for the title with almost every physical advantage. The Boston fighter will step beneath the blazing arc lights with a weight advantage of 12 or 15 pounds; he will be the better boxer, the better two-handed workman, almost as hard a hitter, the more experienced fighter.

Sharkey moves into action equipped with all the weapons needed to win if he will only use them. The one drawback to his side of the argument is that he has yet to prove he could use said weapons in a tough spot where the party of the second part was intent upon upsetting his pace.

The Schmeling who whipped Risko and Paulino would be at least an even bet tonight, but Schmeling has yet to show that he is the same.

He has been no star training camp worker, but this doesn't always mean a lot Training camp workouts have fooled more than one canny observer in the past and they will upset still more in the future. They all too often offer no reliable data upon which to hand a sound opinion.

Sharkey has shown enough in training to carry the German rampart nd take it by siege or storm, if he can only carry his preliminary maneuvers into action under fire.

There isn't enough difference in the two ages or the two weights to matter a lot. Schmeling is 24 and Sharkey is 27. Schmeling will go beyond 180 and Sharkey will be under 200.

Schmeling will have to depend upon smartness, coolness, courage and a good right hand punch. These are all important ingredients, among the most important of them all. The German is a smart, keen young fighter, but he is up against a carload of physical handicaps in the way of weapons needed to win a heavyweight

It may be said that Dempsey had little more, but it might also be membered that Dempsey had greater speed, a far greater ferocity attack and far more punching power with either hand when he ripped into Willard. There was only one Dempsey.

If Sharkey could show only a minor part of Tunney's craft and coolness he would be one of the top champions of the game. The big gob has the makings of a great heavyweight. But the combination of a fast ball and a fast curve is of no great help if the pitcher can't break his stuff across the plate. Control is still a vital factor, no matter what the sport.

There must be control of mind and nerve before there can be any

THE LAST BIG SHOT.

If he can't break through on this occasion, his story will be over. man in ring history has ever had as many chances and he could hardly ask for another. He ought to win inside of seven rounds, possibly inside. If he can't win at all, if he is beaten, one of the star ought-to-be's can be written off the book. His day beneath the spotlight will be

Sharkey knows this, but I am not sure any such knowledge

Sharkey knows this, but I am not sure any such knowledge

But temperament or no will help a man of his temperament. But temperament or no temperament, he will have to blow sky high to lose a battle, armed as he is with every needed weapon for a victory.

If Schmeling had continued his fighting career after beating Paulinc last July, packing at least two good ones under his belt, he would have had a corking chance, at least an even chance, to reach the good one would continue on through tomorrow Corbett at Carson City 35 years ago. And Bob then had settled in this country as one of its freckled natives.

BOSTON BACK TO BOSTON.

The fight game, as an institution, practically swung under way at Boston so far as this country was concerned. It started with the rise of one John Lawrence Sullivan, the Boston strong boy, who became a worldwide figure in sport at a time when worldwide figures in sport

Sharkey has made his home in Boston for some years and the historic Massachusetts citadel is willing to let it go at that.

THE LOGICAL PICK.

The logical pick, if there is any such animal, has to be Sharkey. The wonder is that the man who showed so much stuff against George Godfrey and Harry Wills four years ago had to wait so long, granting him all the temperament you can think of. He looked to be on his way then in a hurry to get there. But he has turned what looked to be a short race into a marathon. It is this long delay which has switched so many

The German has been a consistent winner. Sharkey hasn't been consistent in any respect, save for the consistency of his inconsistency. He has now come to the last stop of his long tour from Godfrey and Wills on to Schmeling. He will need all the physical advantages he carries because he is going against a smarter fighter, one of the smartest the

If Schmeling can only prove that he is as good now as he was when he left off last July, he can be conceded an even chance. But when he lett off last July, he can be conceded an even chance. But this part of it will remain a guess. He is now meeting by all odds the best man he has ever faced and it has been nearly a year since he has thrown a hostile glove at some opponent's jaw. If he can whip Sharkey under this handicap it will be because he outclasses him.

All the big crowd asks tonight is a fight without fouls and without favoritism or some weird decision. All in al! it will be an impartial gathering, as far as one can tell in advance, with the German having as many supporters as the American entry. This fight may be international fact, but it is not international in feeling. (Copyright, 1930, for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

NEW YORK, June 11.—(P)—
Caught in the fever grip of another heavyweight championship battle, New York fussed and spluttered tonight, predicted and argued, bullied and fought for tickets—and waited restlessly for Jack Sharkey's 15-round duel with Max Schmeling in the Yankee stadium tomorrow night.

kee stadium tomorrow night.

Not since the late Tex Rickard, master of the ballyhoo, has usually blase Manhattan gone so completely for a championship struggle. There wasn't a seat to be bought tonight in the $13.65 and the $5 sections of the huge ball park. The ringside benches were sold out solid as far back as 60 rows in some choice sections, and loiterers were gathering around the stadium to head the seekers after the 22,000 $2 pasteboards that go on sale tomorrow morning. tomorrow morning.

From a mediocre start, the ordinary interest, the international battle has mushroomed in the past few days into the biggest drawing card since Jack Dempsey, under Rickard's expert mipulation, fired the imagination of the faithful and drew them in swarms to the battlefields. Only the moderate scale of prices—from $2 to $26.25 tops—has prevented tomorrow's offering from scaling dizzy financial heights.

The gross gate seems certain to reach $750,000, a record beaten only by Rickard with Dempsey in the featured gladiator's role. The crowd is expected to number 70,000, at much higher prices. Dempsey and Luis Firpo set the New York record for receipts at $1,1$8,800 in 1923 and the man mauler's knockout of Sharkey in 1927 drew in $1,083,000. Since then the "take" has rarely topped the $500,000 mark. Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney fought the last heavyweight championship battle here in 1928 before $600,000 worth of customers.

Around Madison Square Garden, the ticket agencies, speculators' stands, even in the barber shops, the bootblack stands and wherever the men folks gathered, "Who do yo like?" and "Where can I get a go seat?" were the main discussions seat?" were the main discussions of the day. Sharkey stock withstood nicely the bear attacks of an increas-ingly strong band of Schmeling fan-ciers and closed strong with the New England sailor still a 9-to-5 favorite.

Qualifying rounds will be played Saturday afternoon and match play will start Sunday afternoon and continue through next week.

This is the first time in many years that the club championship tournament will be played in the early summer. It usually is the last on the tournament program but the greens com-mittee decided it will be best to play the tournament now rather than wait.

Many of the players will be out of the city during the last of the summer and the greens will be fairly well played out and not in as good condition as at present. Norman Elsas is the present club champion. Jimmy Livingstone, club professional, will be in charge of the tournament.

Jacobs Is Granted Second's License

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)
The state athletic commission, reversing its previous attitude today granted Joe Jacobs a license as a second for a period of one year.
Jacobs accordingly will be chiefsecond for Max Schmeling in the German's battle with Jack Sharkey at the Yankee stadium tomorrow night.

The commission's action removed a possibility of last minute friction as Schmeling was strongly desirous of having Jacobs, his manager of choice, in his corner when he makes his bid for world heavyweight supremacy.

Jacobs' license had been revoked at a time when Schmeling was being disciplined for failing to go Appling's other triple and Polvogt's single gave the final in the eighth. WASTED HITS.

It was in this frame that a triple, single and triple followed in succession as the frame started and only one scored. Polvogt, who singled to score Appling, was thrown out at second, and Knight, who fired the second triple, was left on third.

Wallie walked in the first and scored on singles by Treadaway and Bolton.

Walker, Treadaway and Bolton hit in order in the third, Frank scoring and Starling leaving. Jack Knight stopped the Lookouts cold. It was in the fifth that Treadaway drove one over second like it was fired from a cannon. The ball leaped over Langford by five feet and Tred-die came in home standing up. Jimmy Johnston, playing right in the place of Rosenthal, got two triples and two singles in the first four Shift in Pairings To Be Necessary.

NEW YORK, June 11.—(49)—When aspirants for the British open golf championship gather Monday at Hoylake and Wallasey for the first qualifying row. qualifying round a rearrangement of the pairings will be necessary. At least four of the listed Americans, two prominent amateurs and two well-known professionals, will not be there.

Harrison R. Johnston, amateur champion of the United States, and George Voigt, semi-finalist in the recent British amateur championship, are at sea on their way home. Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour, two for-mer open champions of the United States, are in America.

Four professionals will carry the responsibility of defending the honors won by pros in other years in the classic British event. Jim Barnes, who has held the title, Macdonald Smith and Leo Diegel, who have just missed it, and Horton Smith, who has tried the stunt but once but was sufficiently impressed to have another go at it, make up the quartet.

START WEDNESDAY.

The championship proper will begin at Hoylake Wednesday with an 18-hole round and another to follow Thursday, after which all competitors 15 strokes or more behind the leader will retire by request, the remainder completing the championship test with 36 holes Friday.

The number of entries—296—breaks the record of 293 established in 1926. Last year there were only 242 entries.

Not since 1890 when John Ball was the British amateur and open champion has one man held both titles, although H. H. Hilton threatend. He was open champion in 1892 and 1896 and runner-up in the amateur the same years.

Rookies Had Tough Time When Alexander Started His Career as Pitcher.

By Grover Cleveland Alexander.

(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

When I reported to the Phillies in 1911 I still didn't consider myself a big leaguer in any sense of the word. I was 24 years old then. As a youngster I had followed the careers of Wagner, Mathewson and other great stars then playing, and to think of myself in the same class seemed ridiculous.

I went along with the idea that this was just going to be a trip south for me, and that when it was over I would be sent back where I belonged, to the minors. We trained in Birmingham, Ala, that spring. some of the young fellows joining big league clubs now had to go through what we went through it would kill them. The veterans didn't go out of their way in the old times to tell the youngsters things about the game. They made it fough for them What a difference between the rookies of that day and this!

Nowadays a rookie thinks he ought to have a lower betth on the train. When I broke in a rookie was lucky if he got a berth at all. Dan Howley, now manager of the Cincinnati Reds, joined the Phillies a year or two after I did, and when he reported to the club at Southern Pines, N. C., he didn't even get a bed. He slept on a blanket spread under abed one of the regulars occupied. I'll leave it to Howley if this isn't true. Practice for a rookie the meant getting out to the most distant parts of the field and chasing down the balls the regulars hit. As for getting a chance to hit in batting practice, that was a joke.

And when I went south that year I was silt only a raw rookie, and when I went south that year I was sitting on the bench and Early on "Hello, Sherry," to Magee. It was silt only a raw rookie, and considered as such by the team and the tello. Sherry, "to Magee," let be plinted the proposed the pr

There were three new pitchers in camp that year from the New York State league, Chalmers, Humphries and myself. Chalmers had been with Scranton. Dooin took a great fancy to Chalmers and that was no mistake, for Chalmers was a fine pitcher.

I remember when Chalmers hurt his arm, after which he never was the same. It was the next spring, after we had been in training camp at Hot Springs, Ark., for two or three days. Chalmers and I were in the outfield during batting practice, and a ball was hit past him. He chased

He never got rid of that kink, although sent to Bonesetter Reese and other doctors around the country. After that he would pitch a fine game for four or five innings perhaps, then weaken suddenly, and sometimes they would get him in the first inning or two.

This letter was sent out by the chairmen of the state committee. In view of the positive provision in the rules as above set forth, I construct the subsequent action of the state committee as advisory rather than mandatory. It is my opinion that the power restain a senatorial committee to fix the assessment and the date by which the same should be paid by all candidates for the state senate, and that this would take precedence over the action of a county committee.

In cases where there is no senatorial committee. In any case where the senatorial or county committee, and the for payment thereof.

In any case where the senatorial or county committees they meet and make sultable provisions for the primary in their respective counties.

G. E. MADDOX.

Chairman State Democratic Executive Com-"Jack, I can get away from that left hook; I can see it coming. Why do you pull it back so far?"

"I don't pull it back far, do 1?"
Jack came back, and the next day and the succeeding days I saw Sharkey shortening up on the old left hook. This undoubtedly will be the damaging blow in tonight's fight.

"THE WEIGHTS.
I do not think Sharkey will weigh more than 198 pounds. I think he'll weigh about 186 pounds. I believe Max made a mistake here. I think he would be even faster at a lighter weight. He kept himself as heavy as he consistently could in the belief that it would give him more strength and stamina as the fight progresses.

If Schmeling had done some real strenuous work instead of playing golf in the hot sun he might have lost about four pounds more and gained a great deal of speed, as much as he possessed last year.

I repeat, I look for a contest worth seeing. I am not going to antice, as much as he possessed last year.

I repeat, I look for a contest worth seeing. I am not going to antice, as much as he possessed last year.

I repeat, I look for a contest worth seeing. I am not going to antice, and the trail of a county committee should fit the assessment and date for payment thereof. In any case where it as entorial committee, and that this would take here. I think he'll attend to it. I think you'll see a Sharkey who will be trying to hold himself in control.

As for Schmeling, he has the qualifications of a champion. He has a keen brain and a punch in his right hand which he knows how to throw with a vengeance. However, I believe he still lacks boxing seience and neffective left hand. But if he gets by Sharkey tomorrow night with out being hadly hurt, and I hope and believe he will, Schmeling will be trying to see the population of the gets by Sharkey tomorrow night will be trying to the gets by Sharkey tomorrow night will be trying to the population of the gets by Sharkey tomorrow night will be

"RACKET" IS SQUELCHED BY CHICAGO SUBURB

CHICAGO, June 11 .- (AP)-A new

CHICAGO, June 11.—(P)—A new racket, consisting of two guitars, a flute and a concertina, has been semi-squelehed in La Grange park.

Four men, playing these instruments, have been put in jail. La Grange park does not approve rackets of this type. The chief of police, E. J. Mitchell, today issued a statement:

"These prisoners will be prosecuted vigorously. I need hardly say they are not residents of La Grange park, but hail from a place called Everton, Ark., of which I never heard. It is my understanding that the group-originally included a saxophone player. I fear he may be at large in this community. If he is, we'll get him."

The prisoners kept right on playing when arrested. This led to the circulation of petitions for their release. The petitions were signed by other prisoners.

Mitchell Countian Tells of Important Discovery in Georgia's Fight Against Malaria.

BY W. J. DAVIS, Associated Press Staff Writer. CAIRO, Ga., June 11.—(P)—How the curiosity of a young engineer and discovery in connection with Georgia's fight to exterminate malaria was explained to members of the first healthcade here by Dr. C. O. Rainey, mmissioner of health.

It was in Mitchell county that T.
D. Haynie discovered that paris green could be used to kill larvae of the anopholes mosquito and it was in a pond near here that the first experiments were made. Mrs. Charles P. Graddick Is mnopholes mosquito and it was in a pond near here that the first experiments were made.

Haynie was about to demonstrate several species of mosquito larvae here and opened a can of paris green to see what it looked like. A gust of wind blew some of the dust into the cup containing the larvae and when the demonstration was called the mosquitoes were dead.

After several years of experiments in which the United States government has taken part, paris green has been found effective as a poison for anopholes larvae, because malaria mosquitoes always feed at the top of the water in which they breed.

Paris green mixed with 90 per cent of lime dust is sprayed on the ponds and the lime sinks hile the paris green remains on the surface.

Dr. Rainey told the healthcade that no white child has died in Camilla from a communicable disease in seven years.

Drainage Wells Inspected.

Inspection of Mitchell county's drainage wells was a feature of the stay at Camilla. One well, it was pointed out, drains a large area wheh it is properly located. Through these wells the water drains from the surface into subterranean channels and passes on.

pointed out, drains a large area when it is properly located. Through these wells the water drains from the surface into subterranean channels and passes on.

There is no danger of infesting the water-bearing stratum in the limestone formations. L. M. Clarkson, chief engineer of the state health board, explained, since there are two strata present in all bases and the waste water does not come in contact with the fresh water.

From Camills the party went to Pelham, where the largest country store east of the Mississippi river attracted attention.

Entering Grady county, the delegation was piloted to Cairo, where local citizens point with pride to the record that "mosquitoes are really a curiosity here."

Dr. Berry Speaks.

Grady county, Dr. R. A. Berry, commissioner of health, said, was the first in the state to pass legislation requiring all rural school children to be vaccinated against smallpox.

Little malaria is found in the county and the health work is directed toward extermination of typhoid fever and hookworm, Dr. Berry said there has been no typhoid this year.

Grady county was among the first of Covering to adopt the Ellis health year.

Grady county was among the first in Georgia to adopt the Ellis health law and was moved to do so because dairymen could not sell their milk in Brunswick until the county had a full-time health officer.

Schedule of Work for Year BORN 153 YEARS AGO Adopted by State B. W. M. U.

FORSYTH, Ga., June 11.—The adoption of a plan of work for the next year centered the attention Wednexday of the Baptist women gathered in convention at Bessie Titt college. The state executive board, through Mrs. A. F. McMahon. executive secretary, recommended that the plan of work outlined by the southern union in the year book to be published and widely distributed at an early date, be adopted as the plan of work for the Georgia union for the next fiscal year, the details of this plan to be carried out in keeping with the policies of this union.

The plan has been devised as a guide whereby all the state unions may work with concerted effort toward a common aim. If Georgia is to compete for the award offered by the southern union it is necessary to adopt this plan as the other states are doing. The recommendation as presented by Mrs. McMahon was a adopted unanimously.

An address by Dr. James W. Merritt, executive secretary of the Georgia for the present fiscal year is $600,000. This goal would not be difficult to reach if each church of the state would bear its proportionate part. But state more than 800 contribute nothing to the support of the co-operative program. The Woman's Missionary Union has assumed the responsibility to for raising $226,000 of the $600,000 state total. This shows the union to be one of the very strongest organizations of women in the state in financial enterprise.

DISTINGUISHED WRITER

MACON. Ga., June 11.—Harry Stillwell Edwards was the honor guest of the Macon Rotary Club Wednesday and the principal speaker was William Cole Jones, leading editorial writer of the Atlanta Journal. A feature of the occasion was the reading of messages purporting to have been sent by noted historic and literary personages, and delivered by Mr. Jones, whose style the "shades" seemed unconsciorsly to adopt. Before reading the messages sent in his care, Mr. Jones paid a charming tribute to Macon's beloved poet and novelist.

MRS. STARNOSE MOVES. BY THORNTON W. BURGESS. has the will will find a way, nothing can his efforts stay.

—Mother West Wind.

Farmer Brown's Boy, having examined the babies of Starnose the Mole and the nest in which he had found them in the middle of a mound of rotted leaves, began to think that he hould repair the mischief he had done. But this he couldn't very well do. He put back the rotted leaves as best he ould, but it wasn't a very good job and he wasn't very proud of it. He hoped that Mrs. Starnose would clear the tunnel out and make it all right

Now, Mrs. Starnose had been suffering as only a mother can suffer who fears that something dreadful is happening to her children. She hadn't been far away. In fact, she had been only a little way down the tunnel that led from the mound of leaves into the ground. As soon as she knew by the sound of his footsteps that Farmer Brown's Boy had gone away, Mrs. Starnose started back for her babies. She found the tunnel leading to that snug little home quite ruined. How she did dig! She couldn't dig fast enough. "Oh dear!" she kept saying to herself. fering as only a mother can suffer who fears that something dreadful dear! What shall I do if anything has happened to those babies?

I am afraid something has happened.

I am afraid something dreadful has

It didn't take her very long, for the digging was easy. Perhaps you can guess how anxiously she entered that precious nest. Such a relief as it was when she found all the babies there and quite unharmed. She felt there and quite unbarmed. She felt them all over with those funny little fingers on the end of her nose. Yes, sir, she felt them all over. One of them had been picked up by Farmer Brown's Boy. She got the man smell and she didn't like it. So she felt this one all over more carefully than she did the others. Despite the man smell, the baby seemed to be all right. smell, the baby seemed to be all right She nursed them and then she ould she do?

Should she keep them in that nice home in the leaf pile? Or should she find a new home for them somewhere? It was that man smell that she could still get on one of the babies—the smell of Farmer Brown's Boy—that "I can't stay here," she said to her-self. "No, sir, I can't stay here. I would never have a minute of peace. would never have a minute of peace. I would always be expecting that terrible creature to return. Every time I went out to get something to eat I would be worried almost to death, fearing that something would happen to the babies while I was away. I simply have got to find a new home for my babies. Yes, sir, I have got to find a new home for them."

Mrs. Starnose saw to it that the babies were comfortable: then, she hurried along that tunnel out of the mound down into the ground. It wasn't a straight tunnel; there had been big roots and rocks in the way.

wasn't a straight tunnel; there had been big roots and rocks in the way. The tunnel twisted and turned over or under the roots and around the rocks. Finally Mrs. Starnose stopped. She thought a few minutes. Then she began to dig a branch tunnel. My, how she did work! Once in a while she stopped and went back to see that the babies were quite all right. Then she returned to her work again. Her tunnel was so deep in the ground that it made no little ridge on the surface. Above ground there was nothing at all to show that there was a tunnel beneath. By and by she came to some roots. They were big, old roots—dead roots. Then Mrs. Starnose began to dig up.

Presently she had a nice little room.

Palatial Yacht Urged For Gotham's Guests

NEW YORK, June 11.-(4)-Placing distinguished visitors aboard a tugboat, surrounding them with policemen and conveying them up Broadway amid a bombardment of paper may amid a bombardment of paper may be New York's recipe for a cordial welcome, but it's far from the southern idea of hospitality. Reginal Fairfield Poindexter, of Norfolk, Va., told the board of trade today.

He suggested that the city acquire a palatial sea-going yacht and "convey the guests of honor to the city in a suitable manner.

uring a lull in the fighting, he called aloud to his "Achmet Zek," he cried, "Allah alone ch one of us may leave our bones to rot where he lies upon this trail today if we keep up our foolish fighting. You wish the contents of the pouch I wear about my waist, and I wish my life and my liberty more than I do the jewels. Let us each, then, take that which he most desires and go our separate ways in peace."

"I will lay the pouch upon the carcass of my horse," he continued, "where you may see it, and ou, in turn, will lay your gun upon your horse, with the butt toward me. Then I will go away, he spoke. His reply was influenced by the fact that he had expended his last shot. "Go your way, then," he growled, "leaving the pouch in plain sight. See, I lay my gun as you want. Go."

Sorrowfully and affectionately he let his fingers press the hard outlines of the precious stones! But Achmet Zek was standing now, his eagle eyes commanding a plain view of the Belgian and his every act. Regretfully Werper laid the pouch, its contents undisturbed, upon the body of his horse, rose, and taking his rifle with him, backed slowly down the trail until a turn hid him from the view of the watchful Arab. some treachery. Nor were his suspicions ground-less. No sooner had Werper passed out of range of the Arab's vision, than he halted behind the bole of a tree. From here he had a good view of his dead horse and his pouch. Raising his rifle he covered the spot where the Arab's person must appear Achmet Zek was no fool. Grasping his gun he entered the tangled vegetation walling the trail crawled along, never once exposing his body.

Argument in a court fight between A. B. Mobley, state superintendent of banks, and directors of the Douglasville Banking Company, involving nearly $200,000, was heard Wednesday by Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court. Judge Humphries announced he will hand down a decision later. The plaintiff contended that after the bank's assets are exhausted $193.598,05 will be due by the bank; and charged that at the time the institution closed it was carrying large lines of excessive loans to officers and directors as well as to other parties. Mr. Mobley is seeking a judgment against the directors.

John Towers, Pioneer Naval FAMOUS FLIER IS NATIVE OF ROME, GEORGIA ::

Aviator, Advanced to Captain again with the announcement of his promotion to a captaincy in the naxy.

That man is John H. Towers, and his home is in Rome, Ga. Many mentoday will remember the day in May, 1919, when a flash from the other side of the ocean thrilled the world as it told of the spanning of the Atlantic for the first time by the United States navy's flying boats—the NC-1, the NC-3, and the NC-4.

And today the Georgian, who commanded the flight and in whose seaplane young Lieutenant Commander Richard Byrd went as a passenger, stands second in command of navy aviation—having been promoted from rank of commander to that of captain, and occupying the office of assistant chief of the bureau of aeronautics and first advisor to and executive for Admiral Moffett.

Has Enviable Record.

No other flier in the government service, perhaps, has a more enviable record in aviation than Captain Towers. He was one of the first three naval officers to take up flying after the navy had officially sanctioned the airplane and seaplane as fighting adjuncts. After his graduation from Annapolis in September, 1906, he served at sea until the spring of 1911 began his training under no less an authority than Glenn Curtiss. In where he remained for more than two years.

In the autumn of 1916 he was ordered to Washington and assigned to duty in operations in charge of naval aviation under that office. He was further ordered as supervisor of the naval aviation flying corps, which at that time was just being organized. Upon the establishment of the division of aviation in operations, he was ordered to duty as assistant director of naval aviation and continued in that duty until February, 1919, when he was ordered to duty in charge of the proposed trans-Atlantic flight with NC seaplanes. He commanded this flight, which was made in May, 1919.

Ordered to Pacific Fleet.

In the autumn of 1919, Commander Towers was ordered to duty as the executive officer of the U. S. S. Aroostook and senior aide to commander The name of a native hero which 11 years ago was on the lips of people all over the world with the same reverence and familiarity as those of Lindbergh and Byrd are today, recently was carried over press wires again with the announcement of his promotion to a captaincy in the vessel, which duty he continued until August, 1928, when he was ordered to the bureau of aeronautics.

Cautain Towers' career in the navy entailed numerous promotions. In February, 1908, he was given the rank of ensign and three years later, in February, 1911, was made junior grade lieutenant. In June of the same year he was made senior lieutenant and in July, 1917, was made lieutenant commander. He was promoted to commander in June, 1918, Among the medals he has received for distinguished service are the special medal of congress, the navy cross, the royal air force cross of Great Britain, the Victory medal, the medal of the commandant of the Order of Towers and Sword of Portugal, the Cuban campaign medal and the Mexican campaign medal.

Captain Towers is 45 years of age, having been horn in Rome on Japuary 30, 1885. He was graduated from Rome schools in 1001 and that year where he continued training and development work in aviation. During 1912 several things occurred in his line of duty as aeronautical officer. First was the accident that resulted in the adoption by the government of the safety belt for fliers and passengers. It was on June 20 that the pioneer aviation officer, flying as a passenger-instructor with an easign named Billingsley, nearly lost his life. The ensign was killed when a sudden dive of the plane threw him from the cockpit and Commander Towers was seriously injured when the machine crashed with him from an altitude of 1,700 feet.

names are carried on the roster of the Atlanta police department, either being dropped or forced to resign from their present positions and return to active duty with the department loomed Wednesday night when the police committee of city council probed the matter of "indefinite leaves of absence."

The matter was brought to the attention of the committee through a letter from James L. Mayson, city attorney, who recommended that no protracted leaves of absence be granted and stated that the city charter did not provide for any such indefinite periods of leave. His attention was attracted to the matter through a letter received from the police pension board in regard to the matter of whether members of the organization who were on "indefinite leaves of absence" should receive the benefits of the fund.

It was ruled that if their names were carried on the roll and that their dues were paid to date that they were entitled to its benefits. However, this dues were paid to date that they were entitled to its benefits. However, this precipitated the question as to whether a man could rightfully, have his name on the police roll and yet serve in another position. The latter matter was turned over to Chief of Police James L. Beavers, who is to consult with the three men now on leave of absence and it was thought likely Wednesday night that he would either demand their return or ask them to have their names removed from the departmental roll.

One of the three men is J. L. Whitley, chief of DeKalb county police. He left the city department and became chief there three months ago, but according to the "indefinite leave of absence" granted him is eligible to return to the ranks of city officer at any time. The other two were not named, but one is now an officer with a steel company and the other has been with an auto identification company for a long period of time.

Out of consideration for the late Lieutenant James A. Hollis, the committee deferred the selection of an officer to fill his post until the next meeting to be held in two weeks.
